

Mandi Hudson, DO

Dr. Mandi Hudson attended Willamette University in Salem and then the College of Osteopathic Medicine of the Pacific/Western University of Health Sciences. She earned her DO degree in 2009, moving to Oregon to complete clinical rotations in the Willamette Valley

Dr. Hudson completed a 4 year psychiatry residency with Samaritan Health Services and has since served as a psychiatrist at The Children's Farm Home and in private practice. At the Farm Home, Dr. Hudson loves working with the teen population. She often utilizes humor to help her patients feel comfortable. She is a faculty member at the College of Osteopathic Medicine of the Pacific-NW in Lebanon, OR and she has a passion for training the next generation of physicians to be insightful, compassionate and empathetic leaders in medicine and mental health treatment.

Dr. Hudson gives her medical students a unique and deeper knowledge and understanding of mental health. There is a deficit of psychiatrists in the state of Oregon, and by training all medical students, regardless of specialty, to meaningfully dive into mental health and awareness, She is helping to improve access to quality mental healthcare across the state.

Dr. Hudson's husband is a local cardiologist and they have three children who keep them busy. As a family, they enjoy hiking with their dogs, camping, boating and skiing. Dr. Hudson is also an avid gardener.
