

Foresters Financial

Foresters Financial (Foresters) is thrilled to be honored with this award and to know that our member donations are supporting Mental and Behavioral healthcare in Oregon and the Pacific NW year after year.

Foresters by its very nature is driven by a larger purpose: A strong commitment to help its customers (who are members) and a desire to support their communities. Foresters is a fraternal benefit society – a type of organization that does not have shareholders, but instead exists for its members, reinvesting back into its members and their communities.

Life insurance should provide value to you while you're alive. Foresters sees insurance as a way to create a more rewarding life; and as a member, that life could include valuable benefits like tuition scholarships, community-building grants, wellness programs, and so much more. Driven by its purpose to help those who help others, the organization is focusing its resources, technologies, and innovation on new and improved products and experiences for members.

Historically, Foresters' charitable initiatives were numerous and have included supporting orphanages, homes for the aged, and community building programs. Dr. Oronhyatekha was the head of an international insurance organization called The Independent Order of Foresters. His calling was to do good and give back– during his 27-year leadership, an authentic, purpose-driven culture was borne. One whose commitment to family and community well-being forms the basis upon which Foresters is founded and has stood the test of time.

From its start in 1874, Foresters Financial has helped families build financial security, support each other and make a difference in their communities. Almost a century and-a-half later, this commitment to people and community well-being still sets Foresters apart.
